You wrote your exam WHERE???

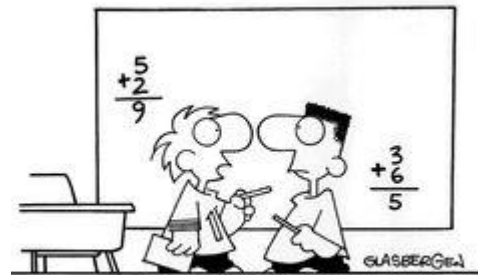

If you have taken a stroll in our school grounds of late, you may have noticed all the building and banging driving our poor teachers dilly! We have extended our science laboratory and have added two prefabricated classrooms this month. Unfortunately, builders' schedules never coincide with a school schedule! Our apologies that the senior classes have been writing exams in the computer centre, After Care centre and even media centre. None of these locations are ideal, but the spacious classrooms and improved school grounds will be worth it in the long run! We appreciate your patience.

Smile a while...

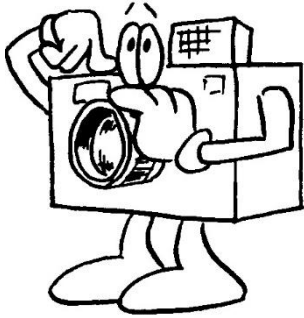

These are some of the answers that have made us chuckle (and sigh) in the recent exam papers:

1. What does NASA stand for? (Apparently the Grade 4's believe that the tougher it is to spell and pronounce an answer, the greater the chance that the teacher will award bonus marks ☺)
 - Natiol Adimible Space Adrilefisterty
 - Nastintionl Ametsraschns and Space Alnilration
 - Nathnatil Aminerstrie Sumstacnec Air Ways
 - National Airways Suitabul Anicourment
 - Natiolnl Anistal and Stace Anventions
 - Nasinal Aranorio Southen arears
2. Who wrote South Africa's National Anthem (Gr 6 LO)?
 - Jan Smuts
 - Jan van Riebeeck
3. What was the name of the philosophy that developed in the Renaissance period (Gr6 history)?
 - Flushing toilets
4. Why was life hard for a VOC sailor (Gr6 history)?
 - He had to spend his whole day cleaning and servicing the captain!

Looking good...

Please don't forget to wear your full winter uniform next week Monday and Tuesday. We have scheduled class photos and individual photos for these two days. We know that our seniors are on their way to the NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration ☺☺☺) expo on Tuesday, but they will sneak in a class photo before they hop on the bus early in the morning.

Life is beautiful...

The incubators in the preschool classes were a smashing hit again. It is always touching to see the awe and amazement in the faces of our little ones as they watch chicks push their wet way into the world. We will upload some pics on the website shortly.

My daddy is magic...

Thank you to all the dads who managed to grab a moment for a cup of coffee at school this morning. To you - and to your counterparts who couldn't make it...we applaud the courageous and chivalrous men you are! May you be blessed this year in your roles as leaders and defenders of family values and integrity! Happy Father's Day!

Have a super long weekend. After Care is open on Friday.
