One more tick, fizz, pop and sleep...

Tomorrow is the Senior Primary Science Fair! We are really excited to see what our students have put together. The public is welcome to come and view between 8h00 and 9h00 tomorrow morning. We would like to thank Mrs Mathebula, one of our moms who is a forensic scientist, and who will be assisting us with the judging.

A reminder that we are looking to reward our children for SCIENTIFIC THINKING, which requires original thinking demonstrating problem solving. A tough challenge for our little scientists!

Celebrating our Heritage...

A reminder that pupils are invited to wear heritage clothing on Friday (break-up day), or any clothing declaring that our pupils are "proudly South African".

Congratulations to the following stars who won in the Maths and Spelling Bees held the past two weeks...

No to pizzas, but yes to bookbags...

Unfortunately, we will not be taking pizza or hotdog orders for Friday as it is our break-up day, so no food or tuck will be on sale. Please do remember to return all bookbags tomorrow so we can consolidate before the holidays. Report any damaged books on:
